"Time present and time past
Are both perhaps present in time
future . . . "
T.S. Eliot

What was once time present, the School year 1966-67, though still close, has become time past. And it is this time which we have attempted to preserve in these pages through pictures, for use in time future when this book will, we hope, serve to make "time present and time past . . ." indeed "present in time future" by recalling to the mind's eye and the heart's eye, the people, the events, and the life of that time, 1966-67, and that place . . . Alabama College.

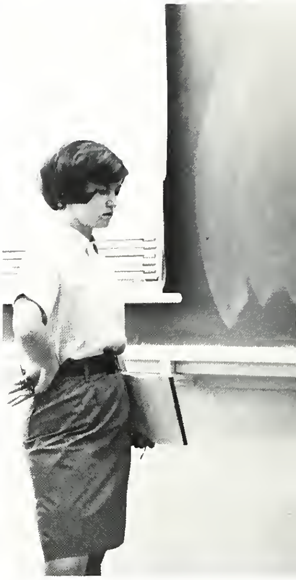
It was a time of beginning again and ending, continuations and renewals . . . of suitcases to unpack, schedules to make and schedules to meet, a rush, a stillness . . .

Of fresh and eager minds discovering themselves in a new world of learning and activity and of older minds discovering a familiar world passing and a new world approaching . . .



of renewed efforts and the "long diurnal haul" of study and work from September to May, with all-too-short weekends and vacations . . . of achievement, failure and new goals . . .

A time of progress and growth in the midst of time-honored landscapes, monuments; and building, preserving, and effacing . . .

A time of searching for a resolution between the ideal and the actual, the concrete and the abstract . . . for solutions to problems and questions both personal and universal, immediate and ultimate, ethical, religious . . . and searching for "momentary stays against confusion" . . . sometimes finding answers or partial answers, but always more questions, more problems . . . and searching and re-searching . . .

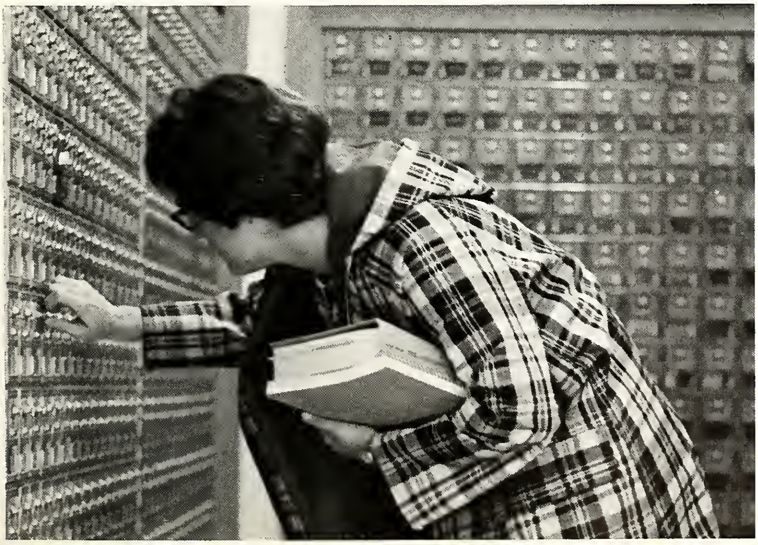
A time of learning and a time of application of what's been learned . . . a time for observation and participation in spirited activities and important causes . . .

A time for working and studying with energy, determination and purpose--or at least studying--and the unwinding, letting go for all you're worth . . . recreating . . .

A time of friendships and familiar faces, and loves, new, old, renewed and ended . . . a time for noise and the crowd, the group, the one and the one; the peace of solitude: quiet, reflection, contemplation: and the pain of loneliness . . .

A time for the empty mailbox, and the arrival of the long-awaited letter . . . a time for the intense, immediate perception of a revelatory and irretrievable flash of beauty . . . and the repeated looking at a monument of simple grandeur, form, and function . . .



A time of mud: red mud, slick mud, mushy mud, more mud; mud on mud and mud on you, mud on rug from mud on shoe; mud mud mud . . . the fall, swirl and kick of leaves, a clean wind in the face, darkening clouds and a drenching rain, wet hair and feet . . . sun again, then crisp chill and bitter cold, more rain, wind, leaves, a day of snow . . . finally, Spring, the opening of flowers and green leaves . . . and the end of a first year, the end of a last year, a year of ending and beginning again, when "to make an end is to make a beginning."

The end is "where we start from" . . . . from that time and that place.

CAMPUS LIFE

College Night Spirit Invades AC

Election of leaders, choosing cabinets, cowtails, and flunkies, cost tryouts, rehearsals, raising signs, more rehearsals, constructing props, more rehearsals, staging, more rehearsals, and then it becomes an actuality--College Night has arrived. The unique homecoming tradition is a mixture of all the emotions contained in life. Some will win, others will lose, but regardless, College Night is the making of never-forgotten friends. It's working, learning, taking, giving, competing. It's obtaining a sense of satisfaction and pride. The real losers are only those who fail to participate.

Students Welcome Snow

Nothing can transform a sophisticated collegian into a squealing youngster like that soft, cold, white stuff which so rarely covers the AC campus. Classes and possible colds are no excuses for missing the fun and battles of snow play of which it seems Southerners never get enough.

Rainfall Adds Color to Campus

Never is it more obvious that it rains two out of five days than when one attends school and must trudge forth to meet those classes. It always rains when everyone forgets their umbrella and on the day when everyone has classes in Jeter.

This year's rainy days have been numerous as usual and the hazards encountered were increased by the walls of red mud and the red mud filled ditches.

Alabama College Theatre Presents Six Productions

Through the efforts of the Speech Department, headed by Dr. Laura F. Wright, in close co-operation with the Theatre Council, the Alabama College Theatre enjoyed a successful season in 1967.

Major productions of the year included Thornton Wilder's "Skin of Our Teeth" directed by Charles C. Harbour, Jones and Schmidt's "The Fantastiks" directed by John C. Phillips, Alan Broadhurst's "The Great Cross-Country Race" directed by Willilee R. Trumbauer, and Tennessee Williams' "Camino Real," an experimental production. Other experimental productions were presented throughout the year.

Highlighting the year was the 25th Annual Walter H. Trumbauer Drama Festival for Alabama High Schools. The year was climaxed by the presentation of "The Three Penny Opera" directed by Marshall Thomas which was a campus-wide effort utilizing the resources of both the Music and Speech Departments.

Class Activities Co-ordinated By Officers

Elected in a spring election by their respective classes, the class officers have worked to provide additional social activities for their class and campus. After fast and furious campaigning, Freshmen Class Officers were elected in November.

Under the leadership of its officers, the Senior Class threw a "wild" Halloween Carnival for the entire student body. The Senior Class worked to finance and leave a traditional gift to the campus.

Displaying their usual wit and charm, the Lettermen won many new admirers as they appeared in concert for the second year at AC. The long lines of impatient students preceding the concert and a packed Palmer Hall were indicative of the popularity of this group.

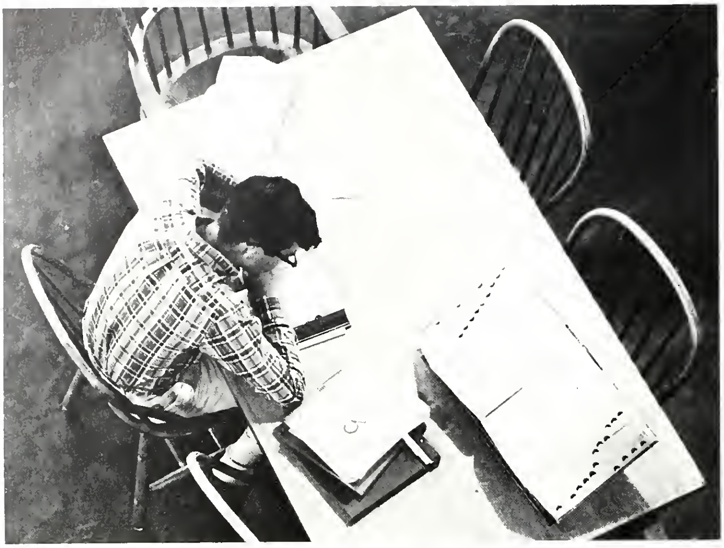
Christmas Spirit Invades AC

As dorms, doors, and trees were decorated, the entire campus took on a festive atmosphere as students prepared for holiday parties and Christmas vacation. To add to the celebrations, the SGA provided a special Christmas treat with an evening at the Playboy Club. Tutwiler Dorm provided a tree trimming party with caroling and folk singing in front of a blazing fire.



Finals Arouse Students

A strange change sweeps over the campus with the approach of final exams. People actually go to the library and Comer class rooms are packed every night as those last-minute cramming sessions begin. "Do not disturb" signs appear on every door and "Be quiet" signs in the halls. The Tea House is deserted, and breakfast lines are filled with blood shot eyed students murmuring dates and formulae.

AC Builds Three New Buildings

With an expected opening date around September, 1967, three new structures are now being erected on the AC campus. These new buildings are made possible by state and federal grants totaling $3 1/2 million. Completion of these buildings will more than double the present teaching space. The Library, containing some 60,000 square feet, will be a three-story building with accomodations for 3,000 people and storage capacity for over 300,000 volumes. Under the supervision of the Home Economics department, the Home Management Laboratory will provide facilities for two major types of residence--apartment and general home dwelling. A two-story structure of approximately 50,000 square feet, the Science Building will house all of the college's physical and natural science departments.

Gubernatorial Candidate Mrs. Lurleen Wallace addresses eager crowd.

Students Participate in Politics

Responsive listeners applaud the Democratic candidate.

The political year 1966 brought to the AC campus a furor of campaigning both by the political candidates and their eager supporters. Students were confronted by the traditional posters, buttons, and handshakes from every side. Needless to say the qualifications and virtues of each candidate were debated and discussed many times.

Of particular interest was the gubernatorial election. Students were fortunate to hear and meet the two major candidates, Democratic candidate, Mrs. Lurleen Wallace, and and Republican candidate, Jim Martin.

The students of AC exhibited their willingness to assume the role of responsible citizenship through their active participation in politics.

Students listen intently to visiting Republican candidate.

Dr. Culp, Donna Jones, Mary Elliott, and professor emeritus Kennerly prepare for convocation.

Founders' Day Serves Dual Purpose

Occuring usually in October, Founders' Day is the commemoration of the founding of Alabama College. It is also the occasion chosen for the bestowal of caps and gowns to members of the Senior Class.

Following the traditional academic procession, the student body was addressed by AC professor emeritus W. J. Kennerly.

Grand Marshal Dr. James Connell heads the academic procession.

Freshmen spend hours plotting out that schedule.

Some students resort to pleading.

Registration Provides Challenge

The pleasant thoughts of a new schedule of studies and professors is dimmed for most students by the dread of facing registration. After endless scheming for a comfortable schedule without any eight o'clock classes, one must stand in seemingly numberless lines only to find that his choice class is closed.

Paying is a major part of the ordeal.

And then one must pay some more.

She should have learned the Alma Mater.

Rat Court Climaxes Traditions Week

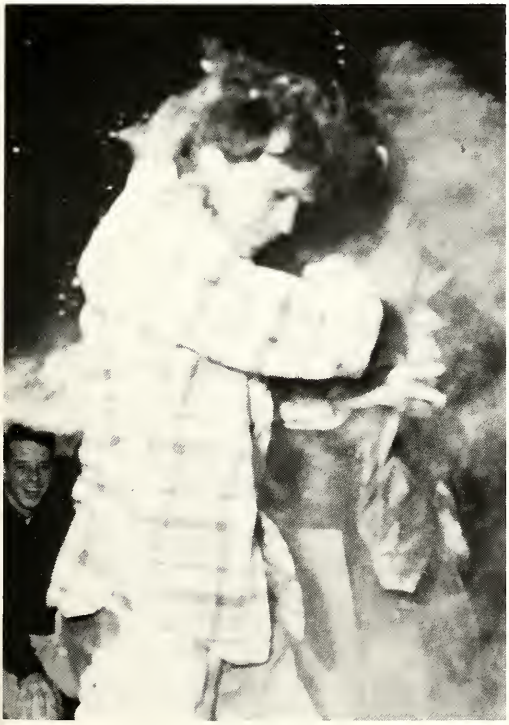
The nightmare of every entering freshman is Traditions Week, more commonly called "Rat Week." Equipped with name tag, Fledging, and the ever present green beanie, freshmen launch into the college scene at AC prepared to sing the Alma Mater backwards and forwards, quote the Fledging verbatim, and run errands for upperclassmen.

Somehow in the midst of these activities, most freshmen meet hundreds of people and forget all about feeling homesick.

Those freshmen failing to comply with Traditions Week find themselves before an honorable court consisting of upperclassmen who mete justice to all guilty parties.

Notorious upperclassmen compose the Rat Court.

"Did he say 'Apple-turnover'?"



Cave canem (Beware the upperclassmen!)

All he did was lose his rat cap.

Discussions range from Mark Twain to Ronald Regan.

Sub Is Hub of Campus Life

Life at AC centers around the Student Union Building. Hungry and lonely students find a haven in the Teahouse where the aroma of ten o'clock coffee and discussion of world problems fill the air. The post office and book store provide money from home and a place to spend it. Students travel to the second level to find relaxation and enjoyment in the form of a bowling or pool game. Upstairs the SUB provides a student and a faculty lounge for meetings and study. The offices of the SGA and the Social Director are also housed on second floor.

The SUB has liberal breakfast hours.

AC Students Unwind at Dances

To music produced by such swinging groups as the Preachers, the Avery Richardson Combo, and the Swinging Medollions, AC students have been provided with an unequalled number of dances this year, sponsored by the SGA and various other campus organizations. Taking time from their hectic schedules, students enjoyed the familiar dances and even created a few new ones of their own.

Students Pitch in for Drives Week

With the spirit typical of AC, students combined efforts and energy to raise money for a charitable cause—this year's being the Selma Boys' Ranch which is sponsored by the Sheriffs' Association of Alabama. A dance, a student auction, a faculty auction and Skit Night marked the week's activities.

The band plays on at the Drives Week Dance.

Sigmas Swing Stunt Night

A difficult decision faced the judges of Skit Night which was presented as a part of Drives Week. From skits presented by the four classes and two social clubs, the Sigma Social Club Skit secured first place. Second and third places went to the Senior Class and Freshmen Class respectively.

S.G.A. Completes 50th Year

With a forty-nine year history, the Student Government Association of Alabama College worked to make this fiftieth year the best one yet. Formed in 1916 for the purpose of student regulation of student conduct, the S.G.A. has developed into a complex organization consisting of judicial, executive, and legislative branches.

One of the major activities of S.G.A. this year was to provide more social activities for the student body. The "jam sessions" in the SUB were due to the efforts of S.G.A.

S.G.A. also sponsored Drives Week, Elite Night, the Beauty Ball, and the Christmas Party. A special treat for AC students came with the S.G.A. sponsored Letterman Concert in December.

English Majors Organize Honorary

Sigma Tau is a newly organized group composed of English majors who having completed nine hours of English maintain a 2.0 overall average and English average.

Having petitioned Sigma Tau Delta the national English honorary, Sigma Tau has as its purposes the promotion of the study and understanding of the general field of English, the promotion of fellowship among English majors, and participation in various campus activities.

Zeta Phi Eta Produces Radio Program

A national speech honor society, Zeta Phi Eta has a membership of speech majors who have a 1.5 overall grade average. Members support the college theatre through such activities as selling tickets to productions.

Their special project for the year was the presentation of a special radio program heard over the campus radio station. The program consisted of special plays and readings appropriate to each season.

Deltas Provide Campus Fun

Living up to their motto, In Medias Res, "In the Middle of Things," the Delta Social Club highlighted the year with social activities for its members and the entire student body.

A "Game of Baskets" was one of the most enjoyable events of the year. Featuring faculty members and masquerading Deltas all armed with boxing gloves, this basketball game certainly was a unique treat for spectators.

An ingenious faculty auction, which the Deltas conducted during Drives Week, netted them a sum of $108.00 which made them top donors in the campus-wide campaign.

In an effort to ignite school spirit, the Deltas sponsored a bonfire pep rally preceding the first basketball game of the season.

Although small in number, Delta participation in campus organizations was quite noticable and diverse.

Delta parties occur throughout the year, but the highlight of the year comes with spring vacation when the club journeys to Gulf Shores for the annual house party.

Meisters Claim Scholarship Trophy

Working toward the goals of improving the social life of the club, maintaining the ideals of scholarship and honor, and cultivating brotherhood among members, the Meisters Social Club has led an active existence since its official recognition in 1962.

Social life for club members was highlighted this year by a hayride, banquet, and the usual Meister-type parties.

The Meisters hit the books during spring 1965, and were justly rewarded when they became the holders of the Inter-Social Club Council Scholarship Trophy.

Supporting campus activities, Meister membership varies from WRSD radio staff to departmental honoraries to A Club. Well represented in Elite Night, Meisters walked away with Class Favorite, Senior Elite, and Who's Who honors.

Sigmas Receive Recognition

Since its official recognition in 1963, the Sigma Social Club has worked and played to improve the social life on the AC campus — and this year has been no exception. The lively pace of the year was set by the Jungle Party which the Sigmas planned for all AC students in September.

Walking away with first place in Skit Night, the Sigmas presented a dramatization of a typical day in the life of an AC student.

The Sigma Club encourages scholarship, leadership, and participation in campus activities. Sigmas can be found in most every campus organization ranging from A Club to departmental honoraries to the Senate. Leadership positions held by Sigmas include an SGA officer, class officers, and officers of various clubs.

Senior members brought honor to the club on Elite Night by winning such recognition as Who's Who, Senior Elite, Class Favorite, and Mr. Alabama College.

Biology Club Furthers Study of Biology

John Clopton and Freda Keller discuss Biology Club plans.

Students interested in the study of biology may become members of the Biology Club whose activities stress the encouragement of that interest and an increased knowledge of biology.

Major activities included providing two series of speakers from appropriate areas who broadened the knowledge and interests of club members.

On the lighter side, parties to welcome freshman and celebrate the Christmas season were enjoyed by club members.

Pursuing a busy schedule typical of their organization, the business administration and economics majors of the Men's Business Club have delved into their areas of interest through the aid of various special speakers, field trips, and business projects.

During the fall semester, they held their annual book sale. In the spring, with the turn of young men's fancies, the club enjoyed a banquet.

The major project for the year was the active petitioning by the club for a charter from the National Men's Business Fraternity, Alpha Kappa Psi.

With the emphasis on participation in school projects, Circle K sponsored a car wash during Drives Week with proceeds going to the Sheriff's Boys Ranch.

Before the state election, Circle K held a mock election for governor, senator and attorney general.

Early in December, the Circle K sponsored their annual blood drive for Viet Nam. Preceding the blood drive, Circle K brought Birmingham News correspondents, Alf Van Hoose and Tony Faletta, who presented slides of the war in Viet Nam. To kick off the blood drive, Representative John Buchanon, member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, spoke to the student body.

Theatre Council Pursues Rigorous Schedule

Members of Theatre Council contribute time and talent to almost every A.C. production.

This is only one type of membership in the Theatre Council — active. This action focuses around the organization of all the College Theatre productions which numbered six this year.

The annual Walter H. Trumbauer Drama Festival is another project co-ordinated by Theatre Council at which they play host to the visiting high school participants.

Prerequisites for membership include participation in at least two productions or a contribution to the College Theater of such quality to merit special nomination.

All the action, however, is not work. Cast parties are enjoyed by members as reward for work well done.

Sociology Club Changes Name

Composed of students expressing an interest in the field of social work, the Sociology Club became the Brook Society this year. This name change came about as an honor to Miss Myrtle Brook who taught at AC during the forties. Miss Brook was responsible for the initiation of the practice course of field work which in this state is exclusive to Alabama College.

Through special speakers, films, and field trips, the Brook Society promoted interest in social institutions and provided an opportunity for students of Social Work to become better acquainted.

Montage Pictures AC

Striving to present an even more thorough coverage of campus activities, the 1967 MONTAGE staff has worked toward the goal of recording those happenings of the year which will mean the most in years to come to AC students. For prospective students and those who would examine AC via the MONTAGE, the staff has labored to convey those unique intangible qualities which constitute the spirit of AC.

Many long hours have been spent in the Tower, in taking pictures, and in the dark room; but the reward will come with the satisfaction of a job well-done when at last the book is ready for distribution.

Band Presents Concert

For those who enjoy participating as well as listening to music, the A.C. band affords an opportunity to enjoy their interest. Under the direction of Dr. John Stewart, the A.C. band presented a joint concert with the choir and orchestra in December. Membership in the band is open to all interested students.

Many long hours are spent at band rehearsal.

Choir, Chorale, and Band Present Christmas Music

For a seasonal treat, the College Choir, College Chorale, and Concert Band combined talents to present their annual Christmas Convocation. With membership open to interested students by audition, these music organizations present many choral concerts throughout the year.

Debate Team Meets Varied Opponents

The Debate Team has enjoyed a very active year attending many tournaments and meeting with numerous successes. The Birmingham Invitational, Mercer University, Florida State, Spring Hill, Mississippi State College for Women and the Southern Speech Association Regional Tournaments were among many of those attended. The Central Alabama Novice Tournament was sponsored by the Debate Team at AC. Mr. Charles Harbour is the acting Director of Forensics. Sarah Hearn serves as Debate Assistant.

Organizations are composed of many faces.

ELITE NIGHT

Brightening the year for the student body was the presentation of Elite Night by the S.G.A. At this time many seniors received an extra reward for four years of college activities. The fifteen finalists for 1967 MONTAGE Beauties were also selected and presented. Candidates for Favorites from each class were introduced and the winners announced.

Top six AC Beauties join Miss America 1967, at the Talledega Christmas parade.

Mary Kay and Rocky Win Title

The titles of Mr. and Miss Alabama College are perhaps the most coveted awards which an Alabama College student can receive. Nominated by fellow seniors and elected by the upperclassmen, Mr. and Miss AC are judged on the basis of leadership, personality and service to the college.

A senior from Mobile, Mary Kay Eddins, possesses a warm personality and charming beauty which as won her many honors at AC ranging from head varsity cheerleader to senior class favorite and finally Miss Alabama College. An Elementary Education major, Mary Kay plans to teach after graduation.

Rocky Stone, a senior mathematics major from Selma, has enjoyed a busy career at AC. Active in the Sigma Social Club, Rocky has participated in College Night, been a physics lab assistant, and served as a class senator. The title of Mr. Alabama College, as well as senior class favorite, crowns Rocky's years at AC.

The 1967 MONTAGE Beauties

MARY ELLIOT

HILDA McDAVID

Representing the Junior Class, Hilda McDavid is an English major from Mobile. After graduation, Hilda plans to teach on the secondary level.

SHERRY MYNATT

From Gadsden, Sherry Mynatt is a Junior Class Beauty with a major in history. Active in many campus activities, Sherry hopes to teach history in high school.

DARLENE WASIOLEK

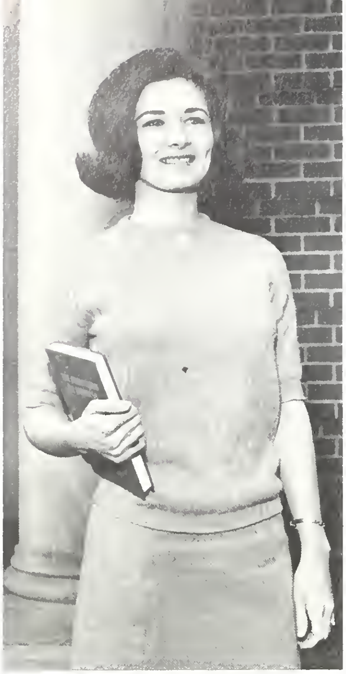
For the second year, Darlene Wasiolek has been chosen to represent her class as a MONTAGE beauty. A speech major from Newton, Darlene is an honors student with plans for graduate work after graduation.

ELLEN WRIGHT

A previous MONTAGE beauty, Ellen Wright is a senior from Clanton. She is a music education major and has been active in the College Theatre.

PATTI YOUNG

REPRESENTING THE Freshmen Class is Patti Young, a psychology major from Montgomery. Patti's campus activities include membership in the Psychology Club and the Canterbury Club.



Mary Kay Eddins, Miss Alabama College, Assoc. for Childhood Education, Junior Class Favorite.

Twenty A.C. Seniors Receive Recognition

One of the highest honors to be attained by a college senior is that of selection for listing in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Chosen by a committee composed of faculty and student members, these students must have a 1.5 or higher grade point average through their junior year. In addition, they are recognized student leaders who are active in campus affairs.

Departments Select 20 Senior Elite

A tradition unique to Alabama College is the nomination by the individual departments of the college of a senior who is outstanding in his major field. The student having the highest average is not necessarily the one chosen. The faculty advisors judge the Elite upon those qualities which they feel make them exceptional students.

In his last year here at AC, Coach Floyd Anderson's tennis team posted a 21-0 record. Defeating their opponents by an average score of 7.5-1.5, the team went on to win the conference and tournament championships without any serious opposition. Such top small college teams as West Georgia and Valdosta, who won the Georgia Collegiate Conference, fell easily to the Falcons. Later defeats were handed to another powerhouse, Spring Hill, downed twice, and Marion also defeated twice. Marion later won the Dixie Conference Crown. The big win came when Auburn fell 5-4 marking the first time an S.E.C. team has been defeated by an AC team.

The nucleus of Coach Anderson's squad centered around his starting six. Donnie Andrews, the junior No. one man, has been the team's backbone for the past two years. James Peavy was the surprise of the season, posting the best singles record ever by an AC No. 2 man. Gentleman Jim Taylor, the team captain, turned tiger in his last year to run through all but three opponents. Ed Kridakorn, the No. four man, hampered by injuries during the latter part of the season still was able to produce his best season in a three year career. The youngster of the big six was sophmore Bill Toms, the No. five man, who is expected to help the team win in his last two years. Paul Kellogg came off the bench to grab the No. six spot from Ronnie Lewis and go undefeated in twelve matches.

Golf 1966

The 1966 season was a highly successful one for the young and inexperienced Golf squad. Despite the fact that the team was composed of two sophomores, Ron Minson and Paul Doran, and four freshmen, they still managed to take second place in both the A.C.C. Conference and Tournament Championships.

Charles Wilcox won personal honors in the conference individual tournament winning second place. Charles also won his No. 2 flight in the tournament to make the all-tournament team. Team captain and Most Valuable Player Ron Minson was dethroned from his no. 1 spot this year but is expected to regain his winning stride for the 1967 season.

The 1966 Alabama College Baseball Team will be remembered by the coaching staff as the "happy" team. The attitude of the boys, even through a losing season, was very good and they fought with a never dying spirit. This team was led by Jerry Gill, captain, and Dan Stane, alternate captain. John Edward Briggs, first baseman from Dothan, was elected the team's Most Valuable Player.

The baseball field at AC was improved this year by the addition of a fence around the outfield and 240 seats.

1966-67 Falcons

As the 1966-67 basketball season began, the Alabama College Falcons faced many difficulties, as it was only their third year in existence. Only one Senior starter returned from last years 9-16 club, and he had suffered a permanent injury to his hand during the summer. Three sophomore starters returned, but sophomore starters are seldom an asset to a college team. There were only two more seniors on the club, both Junior College transfers. Rounding out the team were two other sophomores, three highly alert freshmen, and one junior, another Junior College transfer. Thus the Falcons had some if little experience, but not nearly enough to beat the senior filled powerhouses of the Alabama Collegiate Conference. In addition, the team faced its hardest schedule yet; playing independents, Huntingdon and Belhaven, as well as the other conference teams. The outlook was not very good as the season opened. However, the Falcons worked very hard in pre-season workouts and were ready to go when the season began. They chose seniors Wayne Everett and Marshall Killingsworth as the team captains, a capacity both filled quite capably during the year. As the season got underway, it soon became evident that the Falcons were not to be taken so lightly. They soon proved that at any given moment they could play circles around their big brothers in the conference. Unfortunately, however, mistakes plagued them constantly, and made them lose some many close decisions. No matter what the situation, the Falcons never quit trying. As the season wore on, the close losses became a point of frustration; a lesser team would have just given up, but not the Falcons. The pride and the determination that the 1966-67 Falcons displayed should be a source of pride to the student body and to the school itself. The 6-15 season record was not a good one, but the team gave the student body many exciting moments during the season. The potential of the club is great, with four starters returning next year.

Cross-Country 1966

Through the bitterness of a mediocre season, the participants who represented Alabama College in Cross Country made tremendous strides toward personal improvement. For the most part the athletes were young and inexperienced in this athletic endeavor. This youth and inexperience never seemed to cause their determination to wane. They were continually working toward and making improvement when the season ended.

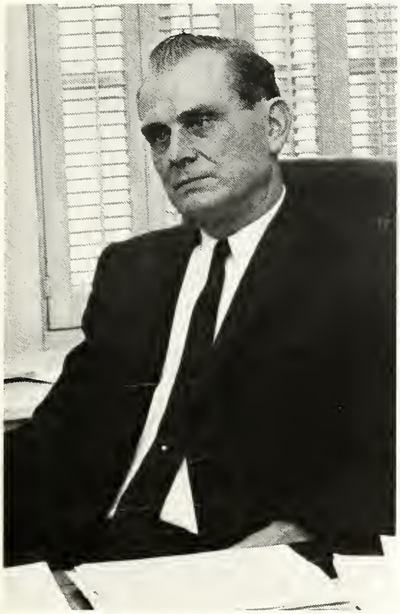
Culp Promotes Building Program

Delos P. Culp

President Culp meets with Alabama College's Board of Trustees.



In a solemn moment Dr. Culp ponders over his many responsibilities.

Dr. Culp joins the students to make Alabama College's blood drive a success.

On June 1, 1963, Dr. Delos P. Culp became president of Alabama College. Under his leadership, the college has introduced a building program that has given us a new gymnasium and Student Union Building. This year ground was broken for a new library, science building, and home economics house. Plans also include an air conditioning system.

Dr. Culp's private life centers around his family of three children. He has been active in the Methodist church for many years. Dr. Culp received his Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees at Auburn University, and his Doctorate of Education at Columbia University.

With his secretary Coralyn McCallough, Dr. Culp reviews administrative data.

Director of Libraries

An atmosphere of silence and study penetrates Alabama College's library. 100,000 books fill the shelves and are in constant use by students. In addition to these sources, there are about 600 periodicals and 17 newspapers available for research as well as pleasure. The large task of co-ordinating and directing these materials rests with Mr. Robert Somers.

King House Provides Psychology Offices

Headed by Dr. Katherine Vickery, the Psychology Department is very important to Alabama College. All future teachers must take certain psychology courses, but it is primarily for those students who plan to go into the many varied fields of psychology such as counseling and guidance. With the basis provided by the Psychology Department, a graduate may choose from many careers.
